Professional Background

Bill began his professional career in Columbus, Ohio in 1986 designing several new criminal justice facilities. From there he moved to Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in 1988, to work with a large national Turn-Key developer of medical office and outpatient medical facilities. In 1991 he returned to his home town, Indianapolis, and began his 14 year experience with BSA LifeStructures. Bill became a partner in that firm working exclusively in the healthcare arena designing and developing projects of various magnitudes in Indiana, Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky and Ohio. Following in his father's footsteps, an accomplished architect and Illinois alumni, Bill began his own firm, Cooler Design, Inc., specializing in healthcare and commercial architecture, in May 2005.

Over the past 20 years, Bill has been a true leader in the development and implementation of Medical Office Buildings. He has written Medical Office Building standards for numerous developers and architectural firms and in 2003 wrote BOMA National's Chapter 5 entitled "Architectural Issues" in their publication entitled "Developing, Leasing and Managing Healthcare Real Estate".

Recently, Bill has been involved in the planning and design of several outpatient medical oncology centers, renal dialysis centers, the Bloomington Spine Center and multiple free-standing medical office buildings. On the in-patient side of things, he worked on the Hospice House and extensive renovations to the IU Health Paoli Hospital. He has coordinated numerous hospital renovations with complex medical equipment installations.

A few current and past clients for whom Bill has done both planning and multiple projects are:

- Bloomington Hospital, Bloomington, IN; Master Site/Facility Plan & over 140 projects since 1995
- Bloomington Hospital Orange County, Paoli, IN; Master Site/Facility Plan & 10 projects
- Good Samaritan Hospital, Vincennes, IN; Master Site/Facility Plan & 6 projects
- Lima Memorial Hospital, Lima, OH; Master Site/Facility Plan & over 90 projects
- Hendricks Regional Health, Danville, IN; Facility Planning & over 10 projects
